Summary

This guide has been designed to introduce congressional staff to selected official government and commercial sources that are useful in tracking and obtaining background information and specific facts on the status of federal legislative or regulatory initiatives. By using a variety of these sources, congressional staff can track federal legislation and regulations.

Those who prefer weekly overviews would be interested in such commercial publications such as CQ Weekly, Newsweek, Time, and U.S. News and World Report. For daily coverage, helpful resources are the Congressional Record, CQ Today, (formerly CQ Daily Monitor), the Federal Register, The New York Times, The Washington Post, The Wall Street Journal, and The Los Angeles Times. Databases such as GPO Access, LexisNexis, Westlaw, and the websites of the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate are also useful.

The Code of Federal Regulations, the Index to the Code of Federal Regulations, and the CIS/Index to Publications of the United States Congress provide subject access to regulatory and legislative publications. Government sources such as the Legislative Resource Center, the White House's Office of the Executive Clerk, and the Office of the Federal Register can give brief information on legislative and regulatory developments too new to have been captured by standard online or printed sources. Capsule descriptions of directories and other media sources are provided. Annotations for each source contain publisher contact information. This report will be updated as needed.

Additional information on tracking legislation for congressional offices is provided in CRS Report RL30796, Legislative Research in Congressional Offices: A Primer, by Clay H. Wellborn and Michael Kolakowski; and CRS Report RS20991, Legislative Planning: Considerations for Congressional Staff, by Judy Schneider.

Introduction¹

Tracking the status of current federal legislation and regulations is often viewed as a difficult task, requiring a vast library of costly resources, in-depth knowledge of the issues, and strong familiarity with the federal government's inner workings. This is not necessarily so. Although access to sophisticated databases and comprehensive knowledge of the federal government may help, it is possible for most congressional staff to follow an issue by using a variety of resources readily available. The scope of the issue will determine how complicated and time-consuming the process will be.

This guide has been designed to introduce researchers to selected authoritative government and commercial sources that are useful in tracking and obtaining background information or specific facts on the status of federal legislative or regulatory initiatives. The sources are arranged alphabetically in two broad sections: tracking current federal legislation and tracking current federal regulations. The sections are organized into subcategories composed of official government and commercial sources. Additional commercial resources, primarily newspapers, have also been included. Annotations describing each source's contents and organization are included so that researchers can select those that most closely fit their needs. Internet addresses usually provide information about the items, rather than access to them.

Most of the publications cited in this guide are available in local public or research libraries. Federal publications can often be found in libraries designated as federal depository libraries. To get their addresses, contact a local library; telephone the office of Depository Services of the U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO) at (202) 512-1119; or go to the Locate a Federal Depository Library page on the GPO Access website at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/libraries.html>.

For all other materials, publisher contact information has been provided. Since pricing structures vary by subscriber type and prices change frequently, publishers must be contacted to obtain the latest order information. GPO publications can be ordered, prepaid, by mail, telephone (toll-free 866-512-1800), or fax (202-512-2250) on any Discover, MasterCard, VISA, or American Express credit card from Superintendent of Documents, P.O. Box 371954, Pittsburgh, PA 15250-7954.

Tracking Current Federal Legislation

Action on legislation passed or pending in the current Congress, and its status in the legislative process, is reported in the Congressional Record. This is the primary source for the text of floor debates and the official source for recorded votes.

An accurate and widely used database, the Legislative Information Service (LIS) <http://www.congress.gov> website is a portal to a variety of commercial, academic, and government legislative sources, including LIS specialized databases. LIS databases, identified by the LIS logo on the search pages, include Bill Summary and Status, Bill Text, the Congressional Record, and Committee Reports. (The Congressional Record can be accessed from LIS.) Basic information about bills, including the sponsor and cosponsors, committees of referral, official or long title, and status appears in the Bill Summary & Status file the day after introduction of the measure.

Since some current legislation amends previously enacted law, it may be necessary at times to consult the earlier laws in the United States Statutes at Large or the United States Code at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/cfr/index.html> and <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/uscode/index.html>.

Official Government Sources

Congressional Record

Superintendent of Documents
P.O. Box 371954
Pittsburgh, PA 15250-7954

Tel: (866) 512-1800
Fax: (202) 512-2250

Frequency: Published each day that one or both chambers are in session, except infrequent instances when two or more consecutive issues are printed together.

The Congressional Record contains the edited transcript of activities on the floor of the House and the Senate. The “Daily Digest” section summarizes action in each chamber, committee hearings, new public laws, and committee meetings scheduled for the next legislative day. Indexes are issued twice a month. The subject index section can be used to identify bills by topic, and the “History of Bills and Resolutions” section tracks action on specific bills. The indexes, which are available online at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/cri/index.html>, are eventually cumulated into bound volumes.

Daily Calendar Information. Both political parties in the Senate and the House provide recorded messages about the proceedings on the floor of each chamber every day they are in session. Call the following numbers for these cloakroom recordings:

Senate: (202) 224-8601 (Republican)
(202) 224-8541 (Democratic)

House: (202) 225-7430 (Republican)
(202) 225-7400 (Democratic)

The Government Printing Office (GPO) provides free Internet access to a wide variety of legislative, regulatory, and executive material, such as congressional bills, the Congressional Record and the Congressional Record Index (including the “History of Bills and Resolutions” section), congressional calendars, public laws, selected congressional reports and documents, the Weekly Compilation of Presidential Documents, the Federal Register, and the Code of Federal Regulations. Time spans covered vary by category.

Legislative Information Service (LIS) at <http://www.congress.gov>. Legislative Information System provides Members of Congress and their staffs access to legislative information that is accurate, timely, and complete. This website, accessible only to Members and their staff, is a portal to a variety of commercial, academic, and government legislative sources, including LIS specialized databases. LIS databases, identified by the LIS logo on the search pages, include Bill Summary and Status, Bill Text, the Congressional Record, and Committee Reports. Basic information about bills, including the sponsor and cosponsors, committees of referral, official or long title, and status appears in the Bill Summary & Status file the day after introduction of the measure.

Legislative Resource Center (LRC). The Legislative Resource Center assists with the retrieval of legislative information and records of the House for congressional offices and the public. The Legislative Resource Center provides centralized access to all published documents originated and produced by the House and its committees, to the historical records of the House, and to public disclosure documents. The center combines the responsibilities of several previously separate offices—the House Library, House Historical Services, the House Document Room, the Office of Legislative Information, and the Office of Records and Registration. For assistance regarding the status of current legislation, call (202) 225-1772.

Public Laws Update Service. Information on new public law numbers assigned to recently enacted public laws can be obtained from a recorded message maintained by the National Archives and Records Administration's Office of the Federal Register at (202) 741-6043 or by subscribing to its Public Laws Electronic Notification Service (PENS) at <http://listserv.gsa.gov/cgi-bin/wa.exe?SUBED1=publaws-l&A=1>.

Westlaw

<http://www.westlaw.com>

West Group
610 Opperman Drive
Eagan, MN 55123

Although Westlaw was designed primarily as a legal reference database, many of its files contain material useful to anyone tracking legislation or regulations. For example, the Congressional Record is available in full text on this subscription service, as are the Federal Register and the current Code of Federal Regulations. Also available in full text are congressional bills, selected presidential documents, and federal laws. Only Westlaw subscribers can access the system.

Tracking Current Federal Regulations

Regulations are issued by federal departments and agencies under the authority delegated to them by federal law or presidential executive order and have the force of law. Final regulations are printed in the Federal Register (FR) and later codified by subject in the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). By using these two sources with their many indexes and tables, it is possible to identify existing regulations in a subject area or pertaining to a specific section of the United States Code, identify regulations issued pursuant to a specific public law, or find proposed regulations that are not yet final.

The Federal Regulatory Directory describes the regulatory responsibilities of more than 100 federal agencies, and the Index to the Code of Federal Regulations provides indexing to the CFR.

Official Government Sources

Pittsburgh, PA 15250-7954

Tel: (866) 512-1800
Fax: (202) 512-2250

Frequency: Revised annually (about one quarter of the titles at a time) in January, April, July, and October.

The Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) codifies final regulations having general applicability and legal effect that first appeared in the Federal Register. Its 50 titles are arranged by subject. Since the annual revision incorporates new regulations and drops superseded ones, the CFR reflects regulations in effect at the time of printing. Several indexes and tables accompany the set.

Customer Service: (202) 741-6000

Frequency: Daily, Monday through Friday; not published on Saturdays, Sundays, or federal holidays.

The Federal Register (FR) is the official announcement of regulations and legal notices issued by federal departments and agencies. These include proposed and final federal regulations having general applicability and legal effect; executive orders and presidential proclamations; documents required to be published by act of Congress; and other federal documents of public interest. It also updates the CFR. Daily and monthly indexes, and an accompanying publication, List of CFR Sections Affected, aid in its use.

The Register also publishes the “Unified Agenda of Federal Regulatory and Deregulatory Actions” twice a year (usually in April and October) at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/ua/index.html>. This document provides advance notice of proposed rulemaking by listing all rules and proposed rules that more than 60 federal departments, agencies, and commissions expect to issue during the next six months. Regulations that concern the military or foreign affairs, or that deal only with agency personnel, organization, or management matters, are excluded. The agenda is available online from 1994 through the present at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/ua/index/html>, and can be searched by subject, agency, and Code of Federal Regulations part number.

Congressional staffers who need copies of pages of the Federal Register can photocopy as many pages as they need in person at the Office of the Federal Register. The address is the National Archives and Records Administration, 800 North Capitol Street, NW, Suite 700, Washington, DC 20001. For information on per-page copying costs and hours of operation, contact the Federal Register at number above.

The Government Printing Office provides free Internet access to the Code of Federal Regulations, the codification of the general and permanent rules published in the Federal Register by the executive departments and agencies of the federal government. It is divided into 50 titles that represent broad areas subject to federal regulation. Each volume of the CFR is updated once each calendar year and is issued on a quarterly basis.

Office of Management and Budget’s “Regulatory Matters” Web Page

<http://www.whitehouse.gov/omb/inforeg/regpol.html>

Reviewing proposed and final federal regulations is the job of the Office of Management and Budget’s (OMB’s) Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs (OIRA), which focuses on cost-benefit analysis. Information on regulations that OIRA is reviewing or has reviewed during the past 30 days can be found on the “Regulatory Matters” page of the OMB website at the Web address given above. Also available is data on rules reviewed by the agency since 1981.

RegInfo.gov

<http://www.reginfo.gov>

This website is produced by OMB and General Services Administration (GSA). Here you will find a list of all rules undergoing OIRA EO 12866 regulatory review. Updated daily, a list of all rules on which review has been concluded in the past 30 days; lists and statistics on regulatory reviews dating back to 1981; and letters to agencies regarding regulatory actions.

Regulations.gov

<http://www.regulations.gov>

This website was launched by the federal government in 2003 to enhance public participation in federal regulatory activities. Here, people can search and view proposed regulations from about 160 federal departments and agencies. Also, every entry links to a comment form that readers can complete and submit to the appropriate department or agency. Regulations.gov is updated each business day with proposed new regulations. Among the database's search options are

- keyword or subject;
- department or agency name;
- regulations published today;
- comments due today;
- open regulations or comments by publication dates; and
- Code of Federal Regulations citation.
